

On-line Autism Teacher Training Workshop Protocol Carolyn Webster-Stratton, Ph.D. DRAFT 12-01-21

Mentors and trainers will show all the PowerPoint slides in the on-line training protocol series. Some slides don't need much discussion and summary slides can be referred to on the web site for further reading and reflection. After showing and discussing the handouts slides (such as the benefits and barriers, buzzes, home activities, refrigerator notes, record sheets, self-monitoring checklists, agendas, checklists, and evaluations) for one area, in subsequent sessions they can be quickly reviewed to remind participants they will do these things for every topic but don't have to be discussed in detail for each topic. Or you might decide to focus on a specific kind of handout for each session.

The overall goal is to focus more on the Incredible Years methods and processes than content per se as the details of the content can be studied further in the texts and manuals. Often the collaborative processes and role plays are harder to understand in a written self-study format. I recommend that during the first 2-3, 3-hour sessions you focus on modeling the group leader skills of leading discussion of home activities, mediating vignettes, engaging in brainstorm buzzes and reflection in Zoom rooms and setting up role play practices. Here the participants may be in role as parents or children and encouraged to think of their perspectives and watch how you handle their responses. Pause often to have participants highlight the key group leader skills that you are modeling. By the 3rd training session, you begin to put the participants in role of IY group leader in Zoom rooms in smaller groups to plan the kind of questions to ask, how to pull out key principles from vignettes, how to tailor discussions and concepts to the family's culture, goals and the child's development, how to respond to family resistance, and how to plan developmentally appropriate practices with toys, puppets and activities. These activities may be done in larger session or in small group break out rooms.

You have some choice in what vignettes you show as there are more vignettes on the PowerPoint than you will have time for. This checklist will be used to let us know how many vignettes you have shown and which ones you chose. As with the "in person" training you select vignettes partially by nature of the group and the population they work with and partially based on whether you think they have adequately understood the key principles in the topic area.

In addition, you have some flexibility regarding when to do breakout in to Zoom rooms and when to do discussions and practices with the larger group. It is helpful to do at least 3 Zoom room discussions in each session. If you make these short (2-3 minutes) you and often do more than 3 Zoom rooms. You can ask participants to help with recording key points in the chats and send these out in a summary post training.

Please record which vignettes and zooms you have shown and return this to us after completing your training. Also check if you role played a benefits/barriers exercise, or mediated a vignette and discussed leader skills, or set up a role play regarding the skill being taught.

The order of these is not necessarily important but try to have some role plays, Zoom discussions and mediate vignettes in every session as well as review key points and encourage them doing the assignments between sessions.
